

Satellite snow and ice information around Okhotsk

Hiroyuki Enomoto¹

¹ Kitami Institute of Technology

Sea of Okhotsk is covered by sea ice and there are large variability in sea ice conditions, Siberian cold air burst produces ice formation in this area, however these area is considered to experience warming. Satellite observation provides useful data of ice and snow in this area.

This study introduces sea ice and snow coverage in Sea of Okhotsk and northern area, and try to connect climatic conditions.